SCATTERING OF AMMUNITION.

THE intimate friends of President McKinley, or those who pose in the position, are scattering their fire in relation to a specific memorial for him. Immediately following his burial definite movements were announced for providing a monument at Canton and another at Washington, both to be erected by private subscription. They were to be the liberal tribute of a prosperous and admiring people. Of these definite and not unreasonable propositions, one has been virtually abandoned because it was apparent that both could not succeed, and without such abandonment both were pretty certain to fail. It was not a question of the survival of the fittest, but of absolute extermination. It was proposed to ask Congress to take the Washington proposition, as another plan to take care of the annoying surplus.

While this plan is being agitated, a bill is introduced in the House to have the anniversary of President McKinley a national holiday, the date being January 29th. As is well known, it has been the policy of Congress to leave the matter of legal holidays for the individual States to determine themselves. The farthest it has gone is to make provision for the District of Columbia, where its jurisdiction is exclusive. Were this practice to be changed even, it would be doubtful policy to present such a measure while the others are pending, for there are several arguments against such a holiday that should be considered, without any disrespect to the man or a failure to highly regard his estimable qualities. The Christmas holiday is the most general; New Year's, a week later, has been declared a holiday by most of the States—all but two or three, if we remember right, February 22d, Washington's birthday, is a holiday in all of the States, with possibly one or two exceptions. Beginning with Thanksgiving in November, this brings four general holidays within three months. Within the same period falls Lincoln's birthday, February 12, legally observed in many of the States, and Lee's birthday, some time in January, which is observed in a number of the Southern States. If another day were to be added to the four we have mentioned, should it not be Lincoln's birthday? The presence of that bill in Congress is likely to provoke earnest discussion, and to provoke a contest at such a time makes the introduction of such a measure unfortunate, to say the least. The fitting special memorial to the lamented President, in the opinion of his most intimate friends, is the projected monument at Canton. Until that purpose is abandoned all efforts should be directed to its consummation, instead of a scattering of ammunition.

OUR FIRST ANCESTORS.

A CLEVER writer has recently written a book to demonstrate his theory that the garden of Eden and the birth-place of the human race were on this continent instead of the old world. He goes to the ruins of Yucatan for support of his theory and works the lost continent of Atlantis into his argument. His belief might not be so unfounded as some people think, for recent discoveries in the southwest that have been made show that there was a race far antedating the Aztecs on this continent. Indeed, we need go no further than the State's prison yard at Carson to find human footprints and fossil remains of extinct species of animals that were doubtless there long before the stone age, and perhaps earlier. It is possible that instead of studying the early stages of the human race elsewhere, scientists will find their best opportunities in the desert lands of Colorado, Arizona, Nevada and other parts of the great basin.

The editor of the Montpelier (Vt.) Argus, in substantiation of this belief or conjecture, says: Such comparatively slight investigation as has been made shows that the people who inhabited that country, then fertile, cultivated and well watered, possessed a considerable degree of civilization. They had no knowledge of the burning of lime rock, but from a soil rich in peroxide of iron and infusorial shells they made mortar, even now almost as hard as cement where not exposed to the elements. With no cutting tools save those made from igneous rock they dressed the hardest sandstone, thousands of cubic yards of which may be found in a single ruin.

For the support of this population which may have numbered millions, great areas of fertile land were required. One of the most convincing proofs that these people lived in ages long gone by is the evidence that a marked change in climatic conditions has occurred.

It is plain that some great physical change, from seismic or volcanic causes perhaps from both, rendered the country no longer habitable, and they were dispersed. Where they went no one knows.

Civilization was put backward when they were scattered. The progress they had made seems to have been lost, for there is no place where it is seen to have continued from that point. What they had learned had to be learned over again by others, unless it may have been handed down in tradition by the scattered remnants of this early race.

Speculation on their fate is a fascinating subject. The skulls that have been found among their ruins show much greater intelligence than other known early people, fully as much as the Indian of today. To study such records of them as has been preserved in volcanic deposits and desert sands must be an absorbing pursuit.

QUAY is going to write a book. Let us suggest as a title for it "Plum Trees I Have Shook."—Chicago Herald. And the Journal would further suggest that the book be dedicated to Bill Stewart.

THERE is a man in Canton, Ohio, who can smoke through his left ear. It is simply impossible to keep an Ohio man from getting to the front.

SINCE President Roosevelt has such a manifest preference for State executives for cabinet positions. Why shouldn't Governor Sadler hoist his lightning rod? "Teddy" might do a whole lot worse.

THE treasury surplus which has been troubling Speaker Henderson, and other Republican leaders, will be reduced some $20,000,000 by the refunding of duties which the supreme court holds have been illegally collected on imports from the Philippines.

OSBORNE DEIGNAN is in an insane asylum in California. He is one of the men who was with Hobson when he sunk the Merrimac. Can anyone name off-hand the other men in that desperate enterprise?

MRS. CLARENCE MACKAY has purchased a bath tub, paying $17,000 for it. Well, cleanliness is akin to godliness, but if it comes at that price many of us would have to remain outside the pearly gates with the multitude of unwashed.

ALL AROUND THE STATE

A Few Gleaned Para- graphs of Nevada News.

Butterflies in January are something of a novelty on the Comstock, but they were flying about yesterday.

The local old-timer contingent affirm that the mild weather of this winter was paralleled by that of 1863.

Bob Grimmer of Reno left a nice little wad of the "long green" in the valley last week, being the purchase price of a bunch of steers.—Record.

Big freight trains on the Sacramento division that require two engines to pull are now run with one engine at the head of the train and another about midway of the long string of cars. The old "double-headers" are no longer run.

The change was made to distribute the power more evenly and takes as much strain as possible from the draw-heads, which, when double headers were used, pulled out quite often. The accidents caused by trains breaking in two were formerly numerous, but the arrangement reduces their occurrence to a minimum.

News comes from Tonopah district that efforts are being made to organize a stock exchange at Butler City, at which the shares of the mines in the camp can be listed and dealt in, and the promoters have sent to San Francisco for a copy of the constitution, by-laws and rules of the San Francisco Stock and Exchange board to aid them in forming the proposed institution.

In the early days of the Comstock there were several stock exchanges in Virginia City, which had a brief existence, and the Tonopah people are evidently making a similar attempt to keep speculation in the mines at home, and one which is not likely to be successful.

BRAIN-FOOD NONSENSE.

Another ridiculous food fad has been branded by the most competent authorities. They have dispelled the silly notion that one kind of food is needed for brain, another for muscles, and still another for bones. A correct diet will not only nourish a particular part of the body, but it will sustain every other part. Yet, however good your food may be, its nutriment is destroyed by indigestion or dyspepsia. You must prepare for their appearance or prevent their coming by taking regular doses of Green's August Flower, the favorite medicine of the healthy millions. A few doses aids digestion, stimulates the liver to healthy action, purifies the blood, and makes you feel buoyant and vigorous. You can get Dr. G. G. Green's reliable remedies at Hodgkinson's drug store.
